Week 2 summary

Example 1
Rebecca has settled in well to the clinical environment and has identified some learning goals. She has a sound skills and knowledge base to build on and is working within her scope both independently and as part of the team. Rebecca has gained good initial feedback from the staff.

Example 2
You have made a good solid start to your placement.
Comments from the nurses are positive and it is great to see that you are starting to use your critical thinking in relation to the patients.
Well done – it’s great to see your improvement already, you have settled in well.
Your interaction with the patients is great – you have done well with communications at all levels with the client.

Week 4 summary

Example 1
Rebecca continues to gain good feedback from the staff; she demonstrates initiative, seeks clarification and advice when necessary and communicates well on all levels. Rebecca’s skills and knowledge base is developing in line with her gaining confidence and she is working well towards achieving the specific goals of time management and medication administration she set for herself at the beginning of this placement. Rebecca demonstrates safe and effective care and continues to work well individually and as part of the multi-disciplinary team.

Example 2
Great work so far.
Keep extending your knowledge base – work on what you know and push to understand more.
Your have settled in and are really part of the team – great to see you being independent at getting on with your patient care.
Keep up with knowing your patient – understanding why they are an inpatient.
It’s good to see and hear from the staff that you are interacting well.
Your actual clinical skills have improved and you are starting to work and think like an RN.
Great to see you encouraging and sharing what you have learnt with others – this is both hospital staff and other students.
Your keenness to learn and attend extra in-services is a credit to your commitment.

Week 6 summary

Example 1
Rebecca consistently gains good feedback and has been proactive with her goals and in completing sections of this NCAS tool. She continues to work well as part of the team and within her scope as a Registered Nurse student. Now that Rebecca’s competency and confidence is well developed she will focus on the transitioning role to Registered Nurse rather than student and has identified some staff members who will assist her. Rebecca has arranged to work with the Team Leader over several shifts to further understand this role and its importance. She has also set some goals to further develop her critical thinking skills and we have discussed some strategies to assist with this.

Example 2
Excellent work – your understanding of the complex patient is getting better and it’s great to see you thinking about what’s going on and understanding the reasoning behind actions and changes of condition.

<tr>
<td>Rebecca has completed her placement and has worked to a high standard within all competency standards for Registered Nurses, she has gained excellent feedback from the staff she worked with, has shown initiative, and demonstrated safe practice. She identified goals and worked to develop her skills, knowledge and critical thinking. Rebecca became a valued team member and is able to demonstrate the employability skills required to work effectively in a busy clinical environment. I would have no hesitation in recommending Rebecca for any clinical position as a Registered Nurse at a beginning level.</td>
